For our office near Brussels / Belgium we are looking for a

Frontend / Mobile developer

You will be part of a small, young and dynamic group of developers that work on the next generation products for our company. This group works on our Industrial Internet of Things platform called Movilitas.Cloud. An extension of this platform provides mobile applications that run on iOS, Android and soon on Windows Mobile. Our IIoT platform delivers currently specific applications for the Make Industry (trains, weaving machines, farmer equipment, etc.) and the pharmaceutical industry, but will be extended to many environments within the supply chain network. Because of the large interest for mobile and web applications we are looking for a dedicated developer that loves writing JavaScript code and making our customers happy with their solutions.

Requirements for Movilitas.Cloud Frontend/Mobile Developer:

- Good knowledge of Javascript
- Preferably Angular4 or at least AngularJS experience
- Git or any other version control system
- Good knowledge of English language

Great bonus if you know or have some experience in:

- Ionic or Ionic 3 framework for mobile development
- Test-driven development
- Node JS, MongoDB, Linux...
- High availability systems
- Load/performance testing
- Security of web environments

If you are willing to join a dynamic team, get involved with passion in international large-scale projects, develop your business and technical skills: do not hesitate and join us!

We will provide a competitive salary package including a car and pension plan.

We will provide a competitive salary package including transportation cost, laptop, and new iPhone.

Are you the eager and motivated person we are looking for?
